

FUNDING RESEARCH, FUELING HOPE

With your help, by 2030 LCRF is looking to nearly double its annual research investment to $5 million, dedicating at least 50% of its net revenue to transformative projects that advance lung cancer survival.

The research we fund will seek to address the areas of most need, to answer the most pressing questions, and to move the science in order to improve the survival rate as well as quality of life for people facing a lung cancer diagnosis – and ultimately, a cure for lung cancer. Lung cancer is not discriminatory – if you have lungs, you can get lung cancer. Lung cancer still has the highest mortality of all cancers but receives the least amount of funding relative to its mortality rate.

Countless patients, caregivers, medical teams, and family members have rallied to further lung cancer research. For many patients with lung cancer, assuring there will be a second and third line of treatment is a race against time.

The more research LCRF can fund, and the more opportunities investigators are given to solve the riddles of lung cancer, the closer we are to converting what happens in the lab to real-life cures for patients.
